Cost Effective

Large enterprise features at a small business price

You may not have a large staff or big budgets, but effective communication is a key aspect of your operations. Big companies have long enjoyed the multitude of features that come with large enterprise phone systems, network services and dedicated maintenance staff. But this functionality has eluded small businesses due to the high cost of purchasing, implementing and maintaining these various technologies.

Jazinga delivers a modern telephone system that addresses the specific needs and requirements of small businesses:

- Wizards to guide performance of regular operational tasks
- Intuitive interface for access to advanced but easy to use administrative features
- Web portal for users that enable them to access voicemail and easily manage their individual telephone options
- Auto-provisioning of phones provides simple system expansion

Save money every day

Jazinga is not just cost effective to purchase and install, it saves you money every day.

- Add users to your system yourself using plain language wizards to guide you
- Add phones by simply plugging them in and assigning them to users
- Update your auto-attendant and music-on-hold with ease
- Jazinga works with your traditional telephone lines as well as Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) enabling you to save money on all your long distance calls.

Embrace your telecommuters and road warriors by including them in your phone system.

- Make free extension to extension calls to fellow employees whether they are across the hall or half way across the world.
- Huge long distance charges on your mobile phone can be a thing of the past using Jazinga's easy-to-use callback and dial around features to connect mobile phones to your Jazinga system.

Elegant and Efficient

Each user has their own Jazinga voicemail box that will allow them to listen to and manage their messages from their favorite e-mail application. If a message is deleted from your e-mail it can also be deleted from your phone system, and vice versa, eliminating the need to manage messages in 2 places.

Jazinga also includes features such as:

- Auto-attendants that route inbound calls to individuals or distinct business functions or groups in your organization
- Conferencing capabilities that are as simple to use as dialing a 3 digit extensions
- Find me/follow me that simultaneously or in a call chain, dials other extensions or phone numbers including mobile phones, when you are not at your desk
- Customizable music/messages on hold

Jazinga works for you

Whether you're small business is a medical practice, restaurant, real estate office, accounting or law practice, automobile sales and service shop or manufacturing facility, Jazinga can help you save money and present the image you want your customers to perceive when they call your office.
